Tag, You're It. Kathleen Kimball-Baker

This book has 50 commonsense ideas for connecting and building developmental assets with young people. Each idea contains a reference to a study or opinion and suggests actions to help you change the way you interact and connect with young people.

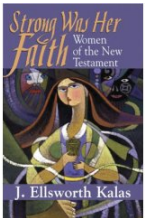

Sunday School That Really Works. Jessie Schut

Whether you're new at the task of leading your Sunday School program or an experienced children's ministry program director, the book offers helpful advice, specific how to information, and a collection of reproducible forms, worksheets, training tools and words of encouragement to share with your volunteers.

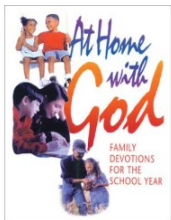

What Do Our Neighbors Believe. Howard Greenstein, Kendra Hotz and John Kaltner

The neighbors we encounter these days do not always hold the same religious beliefs as we do. In today's culture it is important to understand what our neighbors believe. This book offers easy access to beliefs of three major world religions: Judaism, Christianity and Islam.

Strong Was Her Faith. J. Ellsworth Kalas

This book focuses on several women of great faith who were crucial, in ways both obvious and understated, to the story of the New Testament. The author looks at Scripture to see what we can learn about these women and what we can learn from them and how they shaped the New Testament story.

At Home With God: Family Devotions for the School Year.

Do you long to help your family develop the sense of God's presence through every day of the week- even when you feel you don't have the time? This resource gives families with school-age children solid spiritual help.

We would appreciate your help...

If there are books that you borrow and then decide you wish to purchase or if you have a resource you need to order, please check with the Beth at the Resource Center. Any title that is published by Cokesbury, Abingdon, Augsburg, or Group can be purchased through the Resource Center at a discount. The Resource Center uses the profit from your orders to add more resources to the Center thereby enabling you to have access to an ever-increasing selection of resources.
